Economically disadvantaged communities, as identified on this map, are census tracts in which the median household income is less than 80% of the county median income, as compared to the nine-county Bay Area region and the respective Housing and Urban Development income threshold.
